

You're Invited to a Physician CME, Nurse, and Registered Dietitian CE Group Viewing Event

The Intestinal Microbiome and the Developing Immune System

The gut microbiome is recognized as playing a key role in infant health. Alessio Fasano, MD, world-renowned for his research on the gut microbiome focuses on the ways in which the gut microbiome influences allergy and autoimmunity. The effects of infant nutrition on the composition of the microbiome will also be discussed, including the impact of feeding mode and probiotic and prebiotic supplementation. Dr. Fasano will highlight the most recent clinical evidence supporting the use of key probiotic strains, including Lactobacillus rhamnosus GG (LGG), Bifidobacterium animalis subsp. Lactis (BB-12), and others, to inform clinicians about the current and emerging roles of probiotics for allergy management.

Date	_____
Time	_____
Location	_____
Organized by	_____
For more info contact	_____

After viewing, go to <https://pnce.org/gv/59701> to complete a short assessment and get your certificate.

Accreditation and Certification

The Annenberg Center for Health Sciences at Eisenhower is accredited by the Accreditation Council for Continuing Medical Education to provide continuing medical education for physicians.

Annenberg Center for Health Sciences at Eisenhower is a Continuing Professional Education (CPE) Accredited Provider with the Commission on Dietetic Registration (CDR). Registered dietitians (RDs) and dietetic technicians, registered (DTRs) will receive 1.0 continuing professional education unit (CPEU) for completion of this program/material.

Credit Designation—Live Activity

The Annenberg Center for Health Sciences at Eisenhower designates this live activity for a maximum of 1.0 AMA PRA Category 1 Credit™. Physicians should claim only the credit commensurate with the extent of their participation in the activity.

Provider number: AC857
Activity number: 169827

Annenberg Center for Health Sciences is accredited as a provider of continuing nursing education by the American Nurses Credentialing Center's Commission on Accreditation.

Learning Objectives

At the conclusion of this activity, participants should be better able to:

A maximum of 1.0 contact hour may be earned for successful completion of this activity.

- Developing the association between gut microbiota imbalance and autoimmune disease
- Identify strategies, including the use of probiotics, that can regulate the gut microbiota
- Optimize the feeding strategy for an infant with persistent food intolerance

Provider is approved by the California Board of Registered Nursing, Provider #13664, for 1.0 contact hour.

